Texan Invincible When Danger Threatens-Lowdermilk Also Twirls Gilt-edged Ball.

Special to The Washington Herald. St. Louis. Mo., July 14.—The Nationals struggled through eleven innings today before breaking through with a 2-to-1 victory over the Browns. The first run that the Griffmen produced was a gift pure and simple, while the second and winning marker in the eleventh was a bit tainted. The only tally of the Browns was bona fide, and Lowdermik should have been returned a 1-to-0 victor in the regulation number of rounds.

Lowdermilk. In that time seven hits-two coming in one frame-were made off him. Eight batters were left stranded on bases while Gallia worked, ilndicating that he pitched good ball when threatened with being scored upon. Old Doc Wyatt Yancey Ayers, he of the "intilligent" look, pitched the last two

Eight hits were made by the Griffmen in the eleven innings. Only four of these were made in nine rounds, and of the entire total John Henry surprised himself, his mates and every one else by poling three blows, two of which were doubles. His single was the timely nick, however, coming in the eleventh frame and sending over what proved the winning run. Lowdermilk was the victim of the toughest kind of breaks in the opening frame when the Nationals got an unpopped up the easiest kind of a fly to Austin. Jim, however, dropped the bulb swiped second. That wasn't enough.
